

Soil Health Workshop

October 29th, 2019, 1-4pm

Big Horn County MSU Extension Office

317 N Custer Ave

Hardin, MT

This workshop is an excellent opportunity for anyone who is interested in learning about soil health and how it applies to crop rotations, cover crops, and productivity!

Speakers and topics will include:

- Kate Vogel – Seed Advisor, CPAG, CCA, CPSS with North 40 Ag in Ballantine, MT. Mrs. Vogel will speak about cover crops and planning considerations.
- Jack Brown, PhD – University of Idaho Plant Sciences Professor. Dr. Brown will talk about Winter Canola and will highlight the findings from the research they have done at the University of Idaho.
- Kevin McPhee, PhD – Montana State University Plant Genetics and Breeding Professor. Dr. McPhee will talk about planting and management considerations of Winter Pea and Winter Lentils.

For the first thirty workshop attendees, the Big Horn Conservation District will provide a free copy of Gabe Brown's book, "Dirt to Soil, One Family's Journey into Regenerative Agriculture." For any questions regarding this workshop, please contact the Hardin NRCS Field Office by calling: (406) 665-3442, ext. 3.

USDA provides reasonable accommodations for all persons with disabilities to participate in USDA programs and activities. If you require special accommodations, please contact the Hardin USDA-NRCS Field Office at: (406) 629-3220 by October 23rd, 2019.

USDA is an equal opportunity employer and provider.